Rosat Pig a la Lamb In China. A correspondent of the North China Herald writes this dissertation upon roast pig: "How little western writers understand the Chinese! Who has not read and rejoiced over Lamb's Dissertation Upon Roast Pig? It is not everybody who has the chance of seeing Lamb's fascinating story worked out in real life. In the beginning of the present Chinese year le passed through a busy market village where the people kept many pigs. In the middle of the night a fire broke out in the market village and deont in the marker village and the stroyed the whole place. No lives had been lost, but most of the pigs had been roasted, especially those too fat to run quickly. Roast pigs! Burning houses! Lamb's story in real life! Quite naturally I remarked that some folk must have had a splendid meal of roast pork in those days. To my sur-prise the natives asked with disgust 'A splendid meal! Who would eat that stinking, smoky stuff? The palate of the Chinaman absolutely rejects smoky roast pork! All that magnificent epicurean description culminating in the one word 'crackling'-a delusion, a yarn, a lie! I gloated over that yarn when a boy and grew excited as the story went from one page Now to find the whole thing go up in smoke!"

Patrick, a thrifty tradesman in the neighborhood of the Dublin docks, was the story goes, a man who never spent a penny more than he needed to spend, but he was nevertheless as good a man at the making of an Irish bull as any who lived between Bantry and Bally-

Having one day occasion to send a letter to a place some distance, Patrick called a messenger and asked him his price for going such a distanc.
"It 'ill be a shillin'," said the man.
"Twice too much!" said Patrick. "Let

It be sixpence.

"Nivver," enswered the messenger. "The way is that lonely that I'd nivver go it under a shillin'."
"Lonely, is it?" said Patrick, scratch ing his head. "Faith, an' ye'rearight Now, man, I'll tell ye what we'll do make it sixpence, an' I'll go wid ye to kape ye company!"

Curran, the famous Irish advocate was a master of repartee, but he did not always score, though he enjoyed an encounter none the less if he was fairly beaten. One day, in a gay mood, he stopped and chatted with a certain Father O'Leary. "Ah, father," said the advocate, waiting for an opening, how I wish when I die that you had the key to heaven!"
"Why?" said the priest, for he guessed a trap was laid.

"Because you could let me in." "Ah," said Father O'Leary, "it would be better for you if I bad the key of the other place, for then I could let Old as the history of the world itself ancient Greeks and Romans reveled in roses. They were used lavishly at their feasts. In the time of the republic the people had their cups of falernian wine swimming with blooms, and the Spartan soldiers, after the battle of Cirrha, refused to drink any wine that was not perfumed with roses, while at the regatta of Baize the whole surface of the Lucrine lake was strewn with flowers.

never had before. I doctored and doctored for several months but as the pains increased instead of growing better I decided that I was not having the right treatment. Reading in the papers of the wonderful cures performed by Wine of Cardui I wrote to one of the parties and received a very satisfactory reply and I immediately sent for some. In a very short time I felt generally better and after seven weeks faithful use I was once more well and strong. Have never had a sick hour since and I daily bless your splendid medicine.

MONIE BOWEY.

WINE OF CARDUI is one medicine that should always be kept on hand in every home for immediate use when female weakness first makes its appearance. Miss Bowey's painful and dangerous accident would not have resulted so seriously had she taken Wine of Cardui promptly.

Wine of Cardui makes women more womanly by curing their weakness and making them stronger. Wine of Cardui cured Miss Bowey.

As a medicine for all women in every trying period of their lives can you think of a better medicine for yourself, your sister, your daughter or your mother? Can you think of a more acceptable present to give your friend will bring her health and happiness? You are suffering? Your duty is to rid yourself of this pain. If your daughter, mother, sister or friend is sick and in need of relief, your duty is equally great to them. Many women, in ow well, owe their lives to friends who brought them Wine of Cardui.
